Tim Houweling, Director

Tim has been working with and for local governments for over 20 years. He has set many precedents in the Supreme Court of WA and is a competent advocate in all jurisdictions. Tim acknowledges the special position of local governments and in this way, offers practical and solution focussed alternatives to the usual legal avenues. By exploring alternative options for achieving compliance, it often means better and more cost-effective results for our valued clients.

Bronwyn Waugh, Director

Bronwyn joined Tim at Cornerstone Legal in 2014, and since then has firmly established herself within the local government sector as a competent advisor and robust advocate. Bronwyn has a practical no-nonsense approach to dealing with a broad range of matters and is known to think outside the box to achieve unique solutions in a pragmatic manner.

Together, Tim and Bronwyn lead the team at Cornerstone Legal. They understand the complexities faced by local governments, both in terms of the legislative structure and framework of the council and the administrative functions, as well as the interrelationship between the many acts of parliament, delegated legislation as well as authorisations and delegation of officers.

Our team regularly assist many local governments in respect of matters related to governance, compliance, prosecutions and issuing of directions, as well as dealing with and responding to applications made in the State Administrative Tribunal. We also offer training for both the administration, and councilors, and always work to ensure that all parties work together seamlessly for the good governance of the district.

Our experience includes matters related to governance, compliance, environmental health, building, planning, ranger and security services, as well as acting for councilors on occasion, where required. Whatever the issue, we are well versed with many of the nuanced questions specific to local governments. No question is too big or too small.

Please note that limited numbers apply, so please register to avoid disappointment. Unfortunately once the allocated places are filled, no further registrations will be accepted.
